Death of St. Francis Xavier in sight of China.

DEDICATION

This book is dedicated to Saint Francis Xavier on the occasion of the 450th Anniversary of his death.

"I am only trying to emphasize a point, Francis," Ignatius answers.

"Yes, but you are forever repeating those same few words 'What doth it profit a man if he gains the whole world and suffers the loss of his own soul'?"

"Have faith in me, Francis," Ignatius explains consolingly. "I have reason for dwelling on the words, as you put it, and I employ a good psychological device."

"Well, I might enlighten you, Ignatius," Francis answers. "You can never help me in this matter. Contrarily, you make life most uncomfortable at times. In the classroom, all I can concentrate on is 'What doth it profit a man . . .': in study hall, I try to read, but all that comes before my eyes is 'What doth it profit a man . . .'. Why, any more?", Francis gestures vigorously, "I can't even sing 'Le Pont d'Avignon,' without thinking of 'What doth it profit a man . . .'."

Ignatius laughs and says: "Good Francis," as he pats him on the shoulder, "You are responding very positively to my experimental psychology."

Then a fade-out. This was the mode of commercials at the University of Paris.

Did Ignatius finally convince Francis? Was the method of repeating the question effective?

The productions of modern advertising may involve anything from three dimensions to trigonometry. Some products are gag-lines coming from the "brain-children" of the drawing desk and the palette. Yet the ones which stand the "scorching test of time" are usually associated with the spheres of psychology and have a much more profound basis than the twist of a phrase, the dab of a brush or the angle of a camera . . .

One of the most basic of advertising devices, which is almost religiously employed on radio and TV commercials is "repetition."

From experience, executives have learned that constant rehashing of the same phrase or slogan leaves an indelible imprint on the public mind.

This is a fundamental concept, but it isn't new. It was utilized successfully in the sixteenth century.

"Technicians, to your places, please. Lights. Action. Camera."

The scene is the University of Paris. Along one of the hallowed paths under the Gothic arches and pointed porticos, two students are taking a stroll. The first is gaudily dressed, seemingly gay, yet listening with bored respect. The other has the typical professorial air. He is emphasizing a point. On closer observation, it is obvious that the latter, in spite of his mien, is not a professor. His mien and the familiarity between the two betray the fact that they are both students at the University of Paris.

"Ignatius, why do you constantly aggravate me with that same ancient quotation?" says the first.

It is really unnecessary to relate the rest of the story which has been told so many times. Of course, Ignatius of Loyola won his argument with the playboy, Xavier. He successfully sold the gay Francis his "product," and in so doing, increased the capital of the Divine Corporation here on earth immeasurably.

Worldwide pilgrims honor body of St. Francis Xavier in Goa, India, in commemoration of the 450th anniversary of the death of the great missionary.

TALENT NIGHT

The 15th annual Blue Key Talent Night was held December 17, 1952, at the Municipal auditorium. Claude Boudreaux, musical school baritone, took top honors of the night with a vocal on "the Lord's Prayer."

In the group competition, the Evening Division placed first with their interpretation of "Swinging On A Star," and in the skit category, the Dental School walked away with the trophy for "Impatient Patients."

In the individual competition, impersonator Ted Pfister, and "Hot Canary" dancer, Marilyn Johnson, took second and third places respectively.

THESPIANS

"Outstanding" is the best descriptive for the shows which the Thespians staged this year. The classical favorite "Oedipus Rex" was a completely new undertaking for the drama group with the production's technical costuming and psychological insinuations considered. The Lenten production "Pilate" is becoming traditional at Loyola. "Three Cornered Moon" —another arena style production—won both critical praise and student acclaim.

W W L

WWL Officials.

WWL, Loyola's 50,000 watt clear-channel station rates highly in the radio world. It began its existence in 1922 and has grown considerably from that time. This radio station was a result of experiments made in the laboratory of the Physics Department. It is now affiliated with the Columbia Broadcasting Company and broadcasts from the Roosevelt Hotel. WWL operates under the management of Howard Summerville, and functions as a department of the university in cooperation with the Speech and English departments. This radio station is noted for the wide range of entertainment which it presents. Included in this is a variety of programs-sports broadcasts, news, regularly scheduled programs and various others.

RADIO SHOWS

University Time

Radio Shows presented by Loyola range from the dramatic University Time, which presents plays written by Loyola students and personnel, to Campus Capers, all-student show.

On the educational side, the Faculty Panel presents insight into issues by top men in selected fields.

A program designed for relaxation is "Time Out For Listening," a musical show presented via WWL.

A daily religious program is presented called "Thought For the Day," featuring the Rev. L. G. Soniat, S. J., professor of Theology.

ACTIVITIES AND AWARDS

THE LOYOLA UNIVERSITY

Fr. Toomey, Director

Now in its tenth year, the Loyola Forum, under the direction of Father John Toomey, S.J., has featured many personalities of world-wide fame. Discussing items of national and world significance, these speakers clarified subjects of importance to every American. Among the lecturers were Cardinal Spellman; Hon. Heinrich Breuning, the chancellor of pre-Hitler Germany; the Chancellor of Austria, Hon. Kurt von Schushnigg; and Hon, Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, former Prime Minister of Poland; and Evelyn Waugh, famous English author. On the national scene were such speakers as Clare Booth Luce; Fulton Oursler; Thomas F. Murphy, the man who convicted Alger Hiss; Robert Vogeler, imprisoned by Hungarian Reds for alleged spy activities; Frank Fay, star of "Harvey"; Louis Budenz and Elizabeth Bentley, former Communists; Gene Lockhart, prominent Hollywood star; Hon. G. Howland Shaw, former Assistant Secretary of State; Father Keller, author and founder of the Christophers; and Eddie Dowling, actor, playwright and producer.

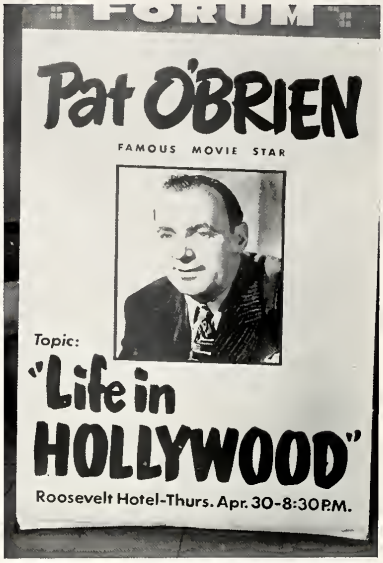
These celebrities and many others make the Loyola Forum what it is, a source of entertainment and education for young and old.

FORUM

Second came the Countess of Listowel who spoke on the conflict between the Church and Communism in Eastern Europe. Having first-hand knowledge of the subject, she gave an informative as well as entertaining lecture.

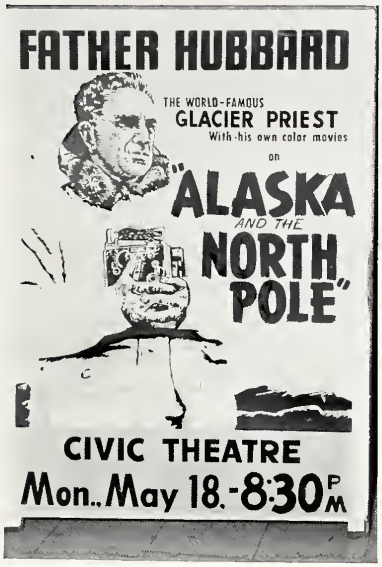
Opening the Forum this year was Bishop Fulton J. Sheen. Bishop Sheen packed the Municipal Auditorium, a habit of his since his first lecture in 1944.

Pat O'Brien, prominent Hollywood actor, spoke on his life in the film capital of the world. His rendition of the famous locker-room speech of Knute Rockne was one of the highlights of a very entertaining evening.



George E. Sokolsky, widely read columnist, spoke on international communism at the third lecture of the year. Having witnessed the revolution in Russia, he answered, without difficulty, all of the questions fired at him during a peppery question and answer period.

UNIVERSITY FORUM



Finishing off the Forum's tenth season was the man who started off the whole series, Father Bernard Hubbard. The famous glacier priest, who is always a crowd - pleaser, gave his usual fine talk about his life and travels in the Arctic, featuring two of his famous movies.

INQUIRY PANEL

"It is of the nature of the good to diffuse itself." This ephrase, hoary with age and classicism, holds true in the 20th century. A practical externalization of the saying is the Loyola University Inquiry Panel.

Serving as a Catholic liaison society between the university and the people of New Orleans, the panel is a series of lectures offered by members of the Theology department and faculty members in general on Tuesday and Thursday nights for fifty weeks during the year.

The purpose of the panel is to let Catholics know something more about their Faith and to answer the questions and queries of others interested in Catholicism. During the year, the beliefs and dogmas of the Catholic church are explained and clarified by Theologians who are specialists in their respective fields.

Under the direction of Father Harold Cooper S.J. the panel has offered peace of mind and soul to many as the constant inflow of testimonial letters to the lecturers show.

"Do you think I'm goin' to do that script over? I'd rather take a test in English survey."

"You'd better rewrite it O'Connor or you're gettin' no more of my lunch."

That's the firm "don't you know that I have the power to crucify or release you" voice of Clyde St. Romain ably backed by Madeleine "Procla" Duvic in the serene chamber of the Wolf office.

From the inner court comes the jangle of denarii—that's Ben Bridgeman and Joan Danner trying to balance debits and credits and to net an extra nickel for their meager pittance.

There's a certain amount of ontological joy in being on the Wolf, however—"Doing . . . purgatory on earth" and that sort of thing . . . the honor of gazing at the campus court (pictures) and the Toulouse Lautrec dabblings of Jane Hyman. Original, fantastic, colossal—that's the Wolf, staff and barrel.

FROSH

HAUSMANN

Because of a lack of Sophomores caused by the accelerated program, the competition this year was not as lively as in years past. The few contests that were held were hot and furious. The Frosh came out victorious on account of their playing ability and superior numbers.

Now that the days of the accelerated program are past, Loyola can look for the rivalry that previously existed between the Freshmen and Sophomore classes.

Student publications are practically always refreshing "rags" where pen-pushers with a nose for news and knack for nonsense can express themselves.

Last year's Maroon improved somewhat on this formula. Though the publication was inded refreshing and "crazy" features appeared now and then, the paper was, as a whole, an excellent product of the journalistic art. Under the editorship of Gary Hymel, it showed an esthetic taste in make-up, and a keen scent for news values.

The "All-American" rating won by this year's Maroon mirrowed not only the endeavors of the staff but also those of its moderator Ed Fricke, its supervisor Fr. Toomey, and the entire Loyola department of journalism.

Far from being static or conservative during '53, the paper truly served as a printed document of student views. It offered provocative controversy and editorial expression on all phases of life at Loyola.

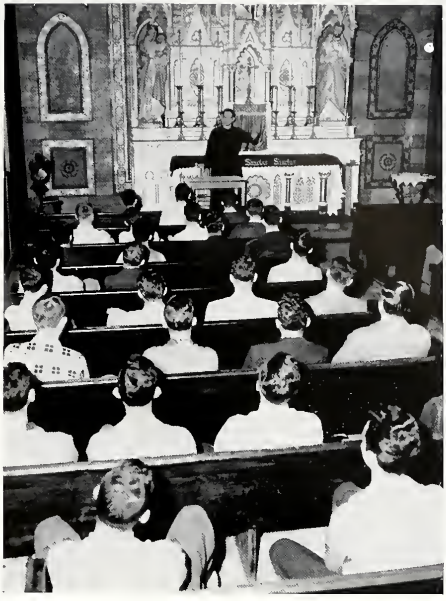
STUDENT RETREATS



When St. Ignatius decided to turn from the life of a cavalier and soldier of fortune and to devote his life to the service of his Divine Master, one of the first preparations of that first Jesuit was to retire to a silent place and make a retreat.

Tradition tells us that his devotions, now known as the "Spiritual Exercises of St. Ignatius" were given to him personally by the Virgin Mary.

The results of that first retreat might well have been responsible for the roster of saints and zealous religious that the Society of Jesus has produced in its relatively short history.

It is a practice in all Jesuit institutions to have retreats for students and scholastics and though many of the uninitiated might not savor the idea of prayer and silence for three days, students at Loyola are always looking forward to this period when they can make a "spiritual inventory" in the pastoral shadows of picturesque Manresa or on the Loyola campus.

Basing their educational system on the tenet that man has a spiritual destiny as well as a physical one, moral duties as well as material, the Jesuits not only give their students an education for now but for always.

THE SOUND OF MARCHING FEET ALWAYS ECHOES THE RISE AND FALL OF EMPIRES. FROM TIME IMMEMORIAL, THE VICTOR IN WAR HAS BEEN SYMBOLIZED BY THE FOOT SOLDIER; HE, WHO WITH A STEEL WEAPON IN HIS HAND, CHALLENGES HIS ENEMY TO HAVE AND TO HOLD A SQUARE YARD OF MUD-COVERED GROUND. HE IS AFFECTIONATELY CALLED IN OUR ARMY "THE DOUGHBOY." HE PLODS AND GROANS, SWEATS AND TOILS, GROWLS AND CURSES AND IN THE END, DIES—UNKNOWN, UNCOMPLAINING. WITH FAITH IN HIS HEART AND ON HIS LIPS A PRAYER FOR VICTORY. HE PASSES ON IN ANONYMITY, EXCEPT FOR HIS LOVED ONES. BUT FOR THOSE OF US WHO KNOW . . . WE REVERE AND BLESS THE NAME OF "DOUGHBOY."

General Douglas A. McArthur

It has been the policy of the Reserve Officers Training Corps staff to orientate the Loyola cadet in the duties of a Military Police officer—duties vital to the doughboy.

1st BATTALION

Each year since its foundation in 1947, the ROTC has grown rapidly towards its ambition to be one of the most active organizations on the campus. The '52-53 year has been no exception.

First on the agenda was an increase in size. It became a regiment consisting of two battalions. Then came activities such as Armistice Day parade, winter formal and basketball game sponsorship.

At mid-year, the "Man of Activities" —Capt. James Tynan was added to the staff boosting the spirit of the corps to a high pitch. His influence helped in organizing the Rifle Club; in sponsoring a University rifle match; in electing the first coed sponsors; and in making the blood drive a success.

The year ended with a spring formal, and a well-drilled inspection, review, and award day ceremonies.

Scholastically, the basic cadet had learned: the fundamental skills of the soldier — mapping, first aid, weapons, customs of the service, and drill marching. The advanced cadet had learned skills relating to his special service branch, Corps of Military Police. These studies range from traffic control to military law.

The R.O.T.C. graduate is commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army. Then he is proud to have "Army trained and Jesuit trained" said of him, and rightly so. He is then ready to take his place in the ranks of the "Doughboys".

WOLFPACK STAFF

Fr. O'Flynn

Loyola University is fortunate in having a very talented and hard-working Athletic Staff. Without their untiring efforts, the Wolfpack athletes would not have been so successful. The real proof of the value of this staff can be seen in the accomplishments of the Loyola teams, for the Pack athletes for the most part were young and inexperienced. Teams of this nature depend heavily on the coaches to weld them into a smooth functioning unit. So a large part of the praise for the excellent record which the Wolfpack teams posted belongs to the Athletic Staff.

Father O'Flynn concluded his first year as Athletic Director in a very successful fashion. This year, besides being Loyola's first among the independents, saw the beginning of the new field house.

Tom Haggerty turned in his usual fine job as basketball coach, as did Jack Orsley and Jim McCafferty as baseball and track coach respectively.

BASKETBALL

Facing some of the best hardfloor-men in the nation, the Wolfpack posted a 14-13 won-lost record. Considering the opponents and the lack of seasoned players, the team gave an excellent account of itself. The Pack was loaded with individual talent, which any team in the country would have been happy to carry on its roster. Despite this fact, they sometimes failed to click as a unit. The reason for this can be found in the team's lack of experience.

However, during the season they did show flashes of their potential greatness. Against L.S.U., the Sugar Bowl Champions, they rose to their greatest heights. Trailing 24 to 7 in the early second quarter, the Pack, during the last six minutes of that quarter came alive. They shut out the Tigers while coming within a point of tieing the score and knotting the count in the beginning of the second half. During this six minute period, no team in the nation could have touched them.

BASKETBALL

Eddie Galvin, one of the best ball handlers in college basketball, took top honors with 354 points. Gus Reynoir, selected to the all-district, all-Catholic basketball team, led the team in average points per game with 16.6 points. Bob Hanberg received the Forward Club's award as the outstanding player of the '53 season. Besides these three players, Tom Ketchum, Ronnie Reynoir, and Bob O'Donnell were also elected to the all-district, all-Catholic basketball team.

O'Donnell cuts loose with a long jump-shot.

Tom lays up two points.

A study in concentration.

A long shot from the side lines.

The Pack will lose the services of only two players from the present squad, Tom Ketchum and Felix Gaudin. So, next year should see the fulfillment of the promise which the Pack showed this year.

FRESHMEN

Fulfilling its purpose admirably, the Junior team has given many promising young players an opportunity to gain invaluable experience which they could not have gotton otherwise. The results of this experience will soon be apparent when these men take their places on the varsity squad. Loyola owes a debt of gratitude to this team for the men it has turned out in the past and the players it will develop in the future.

BASE

Coach Jack Orsley.

Sporting a season record of 18-4, the Orsleymen of '53 comprised one of the best balanced squads at Loyola in years. Their hustle and drive brought new laurels to the University.

Top stickman on the Pack nine was Marion "Dookie" Dauphin (.375), whose switch from first sack to centerfield apparently gave his batting average quite a boost.

Al Belaire leads the Pack moundsmen with a 7-2 record—accounting for better than a third of the wins chalked up by the Wolves.

Loyola suffered only one shut-out. This was at the hands of the University of Illinois. It was avenged at their next meeting. The Pack also reversed their lone loss to L.S.U. Only Mississippi Southern—winning 2 and losing 1—came out ahead of Loyola.

Meet the Team.

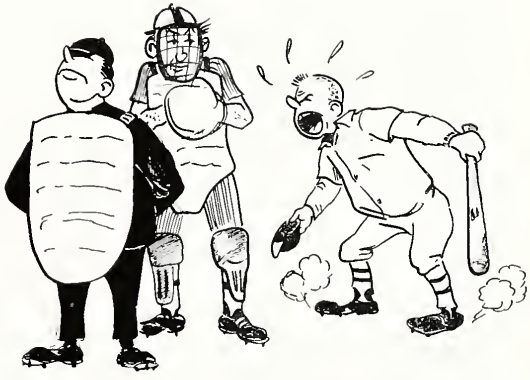
The baseball picture looks bright for the coming years, since there were no seniors on the team this season. Such outstanding players as John Spansel (4-0), Paul Gelpi (2-0), and Will Jourdan (.240, 26 RBI), are only freshmen; and "Dookie" Daupin and Larry Magner (.329), are sophomores.

With the added experience, the Pack should have an even better team in '54.



Freshman ace Paul Gelpi looks for the sign.

Coach Orsley gives the squad a few pointers.

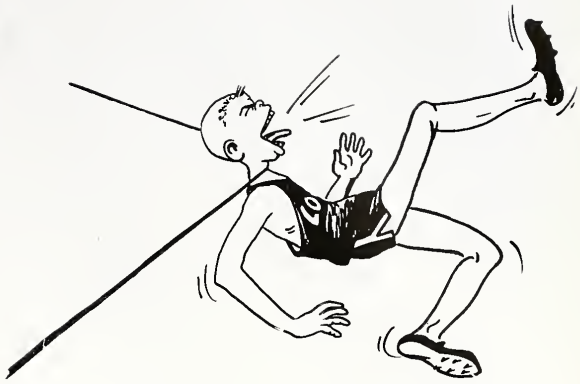
Coach James McCafferty

LOYOLA TRACK

The Wolfpack thinclads, loaded with young talent, finished the season with a very respectable record. Ray Rocker selected as outstanding performer on the track squad, scored fifteen points in every dual meet except the L.S.U. track meet. Ray established himself as one of the best weight men in the country. Loyola also came up with a pleasant surprise in freshman, Sam Ascani, whose broad jump against Mississippi Southern fell short of the Loyola record by a scant foot. Erwin Caswell, another freshman broke the Pack 20-yard dash record in 21.3. Baradell and Heap gave excellent performance in the hurdle events. In fact the performance of the entire team was outstanding as the record shows.

Loyola's distance men.

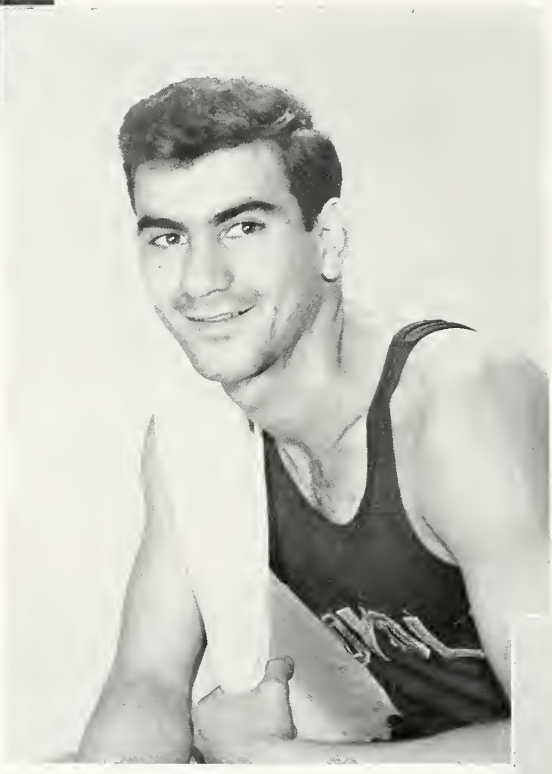
TEAM



Briefly, these are the Pack's accomplishments. Loyola took third place in the Fort Worth Relays; then defeated Alabama and Mississippi Southern in a triangle meet. The Pack copped second place honors in the Southwestern Relays, being topped by the University of Houston, but finishing ahead of L.S.U. and Tulane. Then after losing a dual met to L.S.U., the Pack got hot, defeating S.L.I., Florida State, and Mississippi Southern in short order. The Pack closed the season with second place in the A.A.U. meet.

The coach explains the fine points of track to the boys.

Ray Rocker weight man extraordinary.



Sam Ascani, promising freshman.

Ray Heap—freshman hurdle sensation.

Rocker and Brandau trade secrets on discus throwing.

Hal Chauvin, outstanding distance runner.

Frank Newman, sprint specialist.

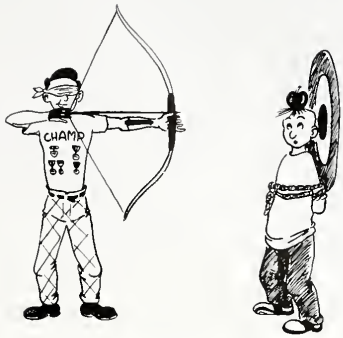
TENNIS

Loyola's tennis team, captained by Bob Hanburg, had a 4-8 won-lost record—a record not caused by lack of talent, but rather by lack of experience. The entire squad, which will be back next year, will be an older and wiser group, having learned their lesson from the toughest and best school, the school of hard knocks. It cannot be long before this seasoned crew lifts Loyola back to the successes of '52.

Bob Hanberg, team captain.

George Frilot, promising freshman.

ARCHERY



The Loyola archery team covered itself with honors this year, winning both City and State collegiate titles. Roland Hymel, team captain, took first place in the Ward event at the Southern Archery tournament in Birmingham. Hymel, the No. 2 collegiate archer in the nation, also won the New Orleans Archery Club tournament, with a record breaking score. Henry Burch finished third; Odessa Elston took first place in the women's division while Margaret Brignac finished third.
